

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kind, and cannot be sold if competition with the multitude of low test short weight, slim or phosphate powders. Sold only in competition with ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall Street, New York.

TIME TABLE.

New Time Card, in Effect June 27, 1886.

Daily Arrivals and Departures:

MISSOURI PACIFIC—NORTH BOUND.

152. Laredo &amp; St. Louis. 10 a m 7:45 a m

154. San Antonio &amp; St. Louis. 8:30 p m 9:10 p m

SOUTH BOUND.

151. St. Louis &amp; Laredo. 7:50 p m 8:20 p m

153. St. Louis &amp; San Antonio. 7:40 a m 8:10 a m

TEXAS &amp; PACIFIC—EAST BOUND.

2. El Paso, Texas, Kansas and New Orleans. 7:00 a m 7:30 a m

4. Colorado and Texas, Kansas. 25 p m 9:05 p m

WEST BOUND.

1. New Orleans, Texas, Kansas and El Paso. 8:00 p m 9:10 p m

3. Texas, Kansas &amp; Colorado. 7:40 a m 8:10 a m

GULF, COLORADO &amp; SANTA FE—NORTH BOUND.

1. Mail and express daily. 8:45 a m 9:05 p m

27. Accommodation daily. 7:00 a m

SOUTH BOUND.

2. Mail and express daily. 8:50 a m 9:10 p m

24. Accommodation daily. 7:15 p m

FORT WORTH &amp; DENVER CITY.

North bound. 8:15 p m 8:35 a m

South bound. 8:15 p m 8:35 a m

C. D. Lusk, Ticket Agent.

HOUSTON &amp; TEXAS CENTRAL RAILWAY.

Express Trains. Leave. Arrive.

Mixed Trains. 4:45 a m 10:45 a m

P. A. MILLER, Ticket Agent.

A. FAULKNER, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Depot near corner of Jones street and Daguerre avenue. City office, 403 Main street. Both telephones.

CENTRAL ROUTE!

Composed of the Houston &amp; Texas Central Railway and the Fort Worth &amp; New Orleans Railway.

THE ONLY ALL-STEEL-RAIL LINE IN THE STATE, DOUBLE DAILY TRAINS EACH WAY.

The Central Route is positively the only

DOUBLE DAILY ROUTE

between Fort Worth, Houston and Galveston.

This route is nine miles shorter from Fort Worth to Galveston than any other route, and fifty-four miles shorter from Fort Worth to Houston, and makes the run in less time than any other line. It is the route for the people of Fort Worth to travel, if they have any regard for time or comfort.

THE CENTRAL ROUTE

leads you in Houston, with its morning train out of Fort Worth, at 5 p. m., and at Galveston at 7:30 p. m., instead of at 10 a. m. as heretofore.

By taking the evening train you will arrive at Houston at 6:30 a. m., and at Galveston at 8:25 a. m. Read our

DOUBLE DAILY TIME CARD,

and patronize the line that gives you the best accommodations.

Through Pullman sleepers between Houston and St. Louis, on trains 1 and 4, and between Houston and St. Louis on trains 1 and 2, via

Dallas, Denison and Sedalia. Through tickets to all points. Quickest route to New Orleans and points in the South. Choice of routes via Denison and St. Louis, or Houston and New Orleans. Steamship tickets to or from any port in Europe.

LOCAL TIME CARD.

GOING SOUTH—LEAVE.

*Accom. *No. 1. *No. 2.

Fort Worth. 2:30 p m 4:45 a m

Waxahatchie. 6:12 p m 6:30 a m

Denison. 7:30 a m 3:00 p m

Sherman. 10:10 a m 3:30 p m

McKinney. 11:00 a m 4:47 p m

Dallas. 5:00 p m 6:30 a m

Cordonia. 5:49 p m 8:35 p m

Clisco. 6:00 p m 8:30 a m

Morgan. 8:30 p m 9:00 a m

Waco. 10:10 a m 12:30 p m

Heater. 1:10 a m 12:30 p m

Austin. 2:45 a m 10:25 a m

Brenham. 2:35 a m 2:10 p m

Houston. 6:30 a m 5:00 p m

Galveston. 8:50 a m 7:40 a m

New Orleans. 7:30 p m

GOING NORTH—ARRIVE.

*No. 1. *No. 2. *Accom.

Fort Worth. 12:55 p m 9:50 a m

Waxahatchie. 9:25 p m 8:00 a m

Denison. 12:40 a m 11:55 a m

Sherman. 12:15 a m 11:32 p m

McKinney. 10:48 p m 10:15 a m

Dallas. 9:40 p m 6:05 a m

Cordonia. 9:40 p m 6:05 a m

Clisco. 6:00 p m 5:50 a m

Morgan. 8:30 p m 8:10 a m

Waco. 10:10 p m 12:30 p m

Heater. 1:10 p m 12:30 p m

Austin. 2:45 p m 5:30 a m

Brenham. 2:35 p m 11:35 p m

Houston. 10:00 p m 12:35 p m

Galveston. 7:25 a m 5:25 p m

New Orleans. 7:30 p m

A. FAULKNER,

General Pass. and Ticket Agent.

P. A. MILLER Ticket Agent.

FINE

SHOES

—AND—

SLIPPERS

OUR

Specialty!

LAMPSON BROS.,

205 Houston street. Mail orders solicited.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

THE CITY.

PERSONAL.

Mr. William Hall has returned from a visit to his old home in Arkansas. John Stumpf, commercial tourist of St. Louis, is quartered at the Pickwick.

Mr. R. A. Riddle, an extensive cattle-feeder of Alvarado, was here yesterday.

Mr. J. C. Bayne of Greenville, who is interested in silver mines in New Mexico, is here.

Col. Rufus Meyer of Dallas was promoting our streets yesterday with some of his many friends here.

Dr. L. P. Black was made sad yesterday by the news of the sudden death of a beloved sister in Tennessee.

J. F. Allison, a gentleman who elaborates on the virtues of a wagon made in Kansas City, is doing the Fort.

Mr. M. T. McCarger, manager of the Western Newspaper Union of Dallas, spent last night in the city.

Messrs. Robert Clarke and George M. Courts, printers and lithographers of G. G. Davis, were visitors at THE GAZETTE office yesterday.

Hon. Barnett Gibbs and wife stopped in the city last night. The lieutenant-governor is on his way to Austin to call the senate to order for the last time.

A welcome visitor last night was Senator Bill Pope of Marshall whom the governor appointed some time ago to collect a little money due Texas by Uncle Sam. He goes to Austin this morning.

Frank P. Holland, senior editor of the Texas Farm and Ranch, known to all men as one of the brightest and cleverest journalists in Texas, came over from Dallas to drink Fort Worth artesian water yesterday.

ON THE STREET.

Hotel arrivals begin to lengthen out. Remember the matinee this afternoon.

Miss Adelaide Moore in Pygmalion and Galatea at the matinee this afternoon.

Refrigerator talk without refrigerator action will not put the refrigerator to work.

That sulphurous odor is now said to come from inferior coal used by the gas works.

The grand jury returned ten new bills yesterday—two felonies, the rest misdemeanors.

Rain is needed sadly all over the county, and unless it comes soon the small grain crop will be a total failure.

Rev. Mr. Turner of Abilene will conduct the services morning and evening at St. Andrews Episcopal church.

If the cattlemen do establish slaughterhouses, and Fort Worth fails to get them, the regret will be general throughout the city.

A young taxidermist of Fort Worth received a box of jewelry from New York the other day when he was expecting a specimen.

The State National Bank attached a couple of mules yesterday, the property of Cook & Zook, against whom they held judgment for $40.50.

Lord Lytton's great play, the Lady of Lyons, will be given by Miss Moore tonight. It is a splendid performance and should draw a full house.

At a meeting of Protection fire company last night, arrangements were made to settle up some small indebtedness of the company. Mr. N. A. Lassiter was elected a member by a unanimous vote.

Charles McCafferty has sued his wife Harriet for divorce. They were married in Missouri in 1880. In 1881, the petition avers, that she left for parts unknown, and Charles now wants legal freedom.

Emeline Gooden and Mary Jenkins, two of the toughest colored females known to the police, got drunk and raised so much Cain in the Missouri Pacific yards yesterday that they had to be hustled off to the station.

The Stock Journal by its recent move becomes a welcome neighbor of THE GAZETTE. The gentlemanly editors and owners of that popular paper have a keen perception of the advantages of propinquity to first class people.

There will be liberal religious services to-morrow morning at 11 and 7:30 in the evening, at Knight of Honor hall (over Fry's shoe store, on Main street), by Rev. N. Schultze, Unitarian minister, to which all sympathizers of the new movement are invited.

The announcement of Charlie Scott for the office of city marshal appears in this issue of THE GAZETTE. He will, as a Democrat, go before the convention.

Words of praise of this efficient and popular young officer are not needed. For four years he has acted as deputy marshal and has done his duty faithfully all the way through. He would make a good marshal.

Information Wanted.

Any person knowing the whereabouts of John C. King, who served in the regular army under the name of John C. Smith (Company D, First Infantry), was discharged in 1881, went into business at Fort Worth, since which time have not heard of him. His address or any information concerning him will be gratefully received by Miss Nellie Morgan, Detroit, Mich., 145 Meldrum avenue.

The Reward of Sin.

The present jury is proving itself no sympathizer with criminals, as it has been imposing sentences on violators of the law that will doubtless cause their wayward brethren, who are yet out of the toils, to reflect a little before placing themselves in a like predicament by any overt act.

Bob Copeland (col.) is the last to suffer. He was sent up yesterday for five years for murderously assaulting one George Williams.

The case of Tom Brown, charged with theft from the person of C. B. Foudren, is now on trial.

Out His Captor.

Yesterday Mr. Emery, a clerk for H. W. Williams, went to the warehouse of the firm on Jones and Fifth streets, for some articles, and found a boy about fourteen years old hid away in a box.

He had broken a window glass to effect an entrance. The clerk thinking that he was there for no good purpose led him to the store and was told to hand him over to the police.

He went out with the youngster for that purpose, whereupon the latter broke loose and fled. Mr. Emery ran after and caught him, but the other turned on his pursuer and cut him severely on the hand with a pocket-knife. He succeeded in finding a policeman and the boy was locked up.

Announcers for Attorney.

In this morning's GAZETTE Mr. T. J. Powell lets the people of Fort Worth know that he is willing to serve them as city attorney subject to the action of the nominating convention.

Mr. Powell is a young attorney whose ability and integrity are well known to the people of Fort Worth, among whom he came friendless and unknown some three years ago. Since then, by constant application and vigorous, honest effort, he has worked up to an enviable standing, and is generally looked on as one of the rising young men of this section. His ambition is not beyond his merits, and should be the next city attorney of Fort Worth there is no other opinion than that he would make an able, honest and zealous officer.

THE REFRIGERATOR.

Fort Worth Should be Moving in the Matter at Once.

It was learned yesterday from private sources that Dallas was making unprecedented efforts to secure a refrigerating establishment something on the scale of ours. The matter is now in such a condition that delays are very dangerous. It would certainly appear to be a simple thing to do what is necessary, if those who can will respond. Prominent citizens have taken the matter in hand to aid the enterprise, and if possible to-day should settle the matter.

A prominent stockman suggested yesterday that it would not be a bad idea to hold a public meeting in order to discuss plans for putting this much talked of and much needed enterprise on foot at once.

ROMEO AND JULIET.

Miss Adelaide Moore Plays to a Crowded House at Her Opening Performance.

A large audience greeted Miss Adelaide Moore as Juliet, in Shakespeare's great tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," at the opera-house last night, and witnessed a fair presentation of this celebrated character.

Miss Moore would scarcely stand the test of severe criticism in this role, though in it she displays considerable power. She has a well-defined conception of the part, and sustains it throughout, but her voice is not what it should be in the tender love scenes which are the great beauty of the piece.

Miss Moore appeared here as Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal," and as Rosalind in "As You Like It," and while she shows undeniable improvement as an actress, those parts are much better adapted to her style than that of the tender, romantic Juliet. She has given the role much study, and in her methods shows much skill. Her appearance is striking and her costumes marvels of beauty and design. Last night she was conscientious in her efforts to please and in the latter part of the play appeared to good advantage and received several very hearty bursts of applause.

Mr. Fred Ross as Mercutio carried off the honors of the evening, so far as the support was concerned, in his excellent characterization of Mercutio. Mr. Bob Dolma as the Friar was all that could be desired.

This afternoon at a matinee Miss Moore will appear as Galatea, in "Pygmalion and Galatea," and in the evening as Pauline, in "The Lady of Lyons."

ONE VIEW OF LOCAL ELECTIONS.

Partisan Methods in Their Applications to Non-Political Offices.

To the Editor of the Gazette.

Party politics have connected with them many evils, and these evils strikingly appear when the machinery of primaries, conventions and caucuses are used in local elections. The Democratic party, by employing its political organization in municipal elections, gave New York as plunder to the Tweed ring; and experience has shown that the surest way to corrupt a political party and to create boodle officials is for it to step off the platform of its legitimate principles and prostitute its power for the purpose of determining whether Mr. Brown or Mr. Smith shall hold a non-political appointment.

What have a man's views upon the tariff, the currency question or the Blair bill to do with his fitness to become a city officer? They are as foreign to the question as the color of his hair or his belief in the existence of the sea serpent.

Officers are not created for the purpose of compensating party fidelity, or to give politicians an opportunity to reward their friends or punish their enemies. They are established to carry on the local public business of the city.

When any political party takes upon itself to dictate what man shall fill a local office, the best way to act is to ignore its movement, for none of its members are morally bound to submit their names to its convention, nor can it call on the conscience of any supporter to follow its standard into a battle where political issues have no significance, and office for the man who best understands party machinery is the only result of victory.

To the intelligent voter, the nominee of a convention and the independent candidate will have to stand upon their comparative merits and personal fitness for the place they seek. It is for him to see that the man he votes for is honest and capable, and fitted by his past training and individual qualifications to best fill the office. And the more the people judge for themselves as to who shall serve them, and the less they decline to be made the tools of party machinery and the puppets of professional wire-pullers, the better will be men who occupy local offices, and the less chance there will be for rascals to scramble into positions that party politics sometimes enables them to occupy.

HOUSEKEEPERS.

The following is a partial list of fresh arrivals for the purpose of filling up a large gap in our stock, caused by the extensive run on us during Christmas week:

Shrewsbury tomato catsup.

Spiced sauce in bulk.

Apple butter in bulk.

Preserved Canton ginger.

Hyman's sweet pickles.

Fine French pickles.

Candied lemon peel.

Candied orange peel.

Leghorn citron.

One and two pound plum pudding.

Five Malaga grapes.

Stillwell pig hams.

Ten cases Comet coffee.

One car Comet patent flour.

Snow white kraut.

Remember, all goods offered by us are of the choicest quality obtainable.

Temple Place. PENDERY BROS.

500 pairs children's knit and goat button shoes at less than cost at Lewis Bros.

See the new song, "Hallelujah on to Glory," at the Fort Worth Music house.

PANHANDLE POINTERS.

The Representative of a Magnificent Scope of Country Talks About Its Excellencies.

Fertile, Fruitful and Fair to Look Upon, it is Destined to Become a Pleasantly Peopled Region.

In the course of a somewhat cursory talk with Hon. J. N. Browning of Mobile yesterday, the subject of a highly exaggerated account of the Panhandle country that lately appeared in an Eastern paper, was mentioned. It was regarded as unfortunate that the letters of such romancers should ever find their way into print, as they operate to prejudice foreign readers against the section so miserably caricatured. To represent the Panhandle of Texas as a lawless region, with a reckless set of desperadoes as citizens, is as far from the truth as to say that sinful Chicago is the abode of saints, and that wickedness is an unknown quantity in the "windy city." Yet these falsehoods, while to a certain degree entertaining reading, are also very annoying to the people of the peaceful and law-abiding section as there is in the whole country.

Some such ideas as these served as an opening for the reporter to ask Mr. Browning what he thought of the present condition of the Panhandle and what its future developments might be.

A GOOD SIZED DISTRICT.

Mr. Browning is in one way at least a notable man. He represents the largest legislative district in the world, and is now its representative in the lower house of the Texas legislature for the third time. His district comprises only sixty-seven counties, an area of land five times as great as Belgium, three times as large as Greece, as big as the state of Kentucky, with 15,000 square miles to spare. Verily his is a district of magnificent dimensions.

And he fits it well. Of large frame, a kindly face that wins by its pleasant smile, robust physically and mentally, not afraid to tell his convictions—that is Jim Browning. A man who has won for himself a name and friends all over the West by his dauntless advocacy of what he believes to be the true policy of the state. But it was about the Panhandle rather than his views on the land question that THE GAZETTE man wanted to hear him speak.

"Tell me about the Panhandle," said the "gentleman from Wheeler;" "well, what do you want to know. Our section is fairly prosperous, and the people seem contented with their lot. We have plenty of room up our way for lots more of good citizens who are willing to work for a living, and a good many immigrants have been among us spying out the land."

"Is there much immigration just now?"

"Not quite as much as during the summer, but still a healthy number of prospectors are now filing on land preparatory to moving on it next spring. Most of these are from Kansas, coming overland. What attracts them?"

"MR. BROWNING'S REPLY.

"Well, you ought to see the country. Did ever fertile prairies, a splendid climate, and cheap homes fail to attract? On those rich table lands no malarial poisons had a lodgment. Elevated 3500 feet above the sea level. Cool, refreshing breezes sweep the land, and in summer time no night is so sultry but that blankets are a necessary article. The outside world may be slow about finding out the glories of the Panhandle on account of our lack of railroads, but picture to us an El Dorado, but simply as it is—one of the finest places in the country the Creator ever fashioned. Think, too, of homes that can be bought on thirty years' time, simply by meeting the annual interests. No such inducements are offered elsewhere."

"How about the agricultural character of the Panhandle?"

"The greatest part of it—indeed, nearly all—is well adapted to wheat, oats, and in fact all the cereals, and so far as tried fruits grow finely. Wild grapes are a natural product that exist in abundance. Peaches of the finest quality are grown, and apples will doubtless do well. The limited number of farmers that have opened up plantations on the creek bottoms are highly encouraged by their success. No, the drought hasn't hurt us very much. The amount of rainfall is a great deal heavier than is generally known, and in winter there is generally a considerable amount of snow."

"You spoke of the lack of railroads. Is there no prospect for them to enter the Panhandle?"

"Yes, several are pointing that way. They are grading on the Kansas Southern in Hemphill, the county next to mine, and are long I think the roar of the iron steed will be heard in the land. Then you will see the Panhandle boom up and people coming crowding thither in a way never dreamed of."

"Yes, unless I am greatly mistaken, ere 1887 has become a parcel of the past, the Panhandle will witness one of the greatest immigration booms that ever struck Texas," and smiling as he uttered the prediction, Mr. Browning bade the reporter adieu.

Important.

To lovers of the year, Call at Morris' cigar store, and get one of the Alado 5 cent cigars, the best in the land.</